Met Office Aberdeen Meteorologist's View
Feeling bitterly cold over higher ridges/summits due to combination of strong winds and temperatures close to freezing. Risk of gales on highest peaks at first.

Forecast for Saturday 24 Oct 2020
Weather: Cloudy morning with outbreaks of rain and extensive hill fog. Brighter afternoon with sunny intervals and blustery showers, some heavy and turning wintry on highest peaks. Feeling bitterly cold on higher ridges and summits.

Maximum wind: Severe gale force southerly winds, even storm force on the tops at first, average speeds of 50mph with gusts 70 to 80mph. Winds soon becoming southwesterly and easing a little.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: Very little chance in the morning with clouds well down the hills. Chances improving to 60% in afternoon with occasional cloud cover about 600 to 700m, briefly extensive as showers come along.

Visibility: Poor visibility, even very poor in heavier rain with navigational difficulties. Visibility will become good in afternoon away from showers.

Temperature: Glens: Plus 6 Celsius rising to 11 Celsius.
At 800m: Plus 2 Celsius.
Freezing level: 1300M lowering to 1100m.
